2007 Landmark Study: Changing brands can change your life™

In this groundbreaking study, we collaborated with researchers from the UC Berkeley School of Public Health to evaluate long-term Shaklee supplement users. The study showed the overall health of Shaklee users to be markedly better than nonsupplement users—based, in part, on the four key biomarkers of health:

33% Lower Triglyceride Levels†

In the body and in foods, fats exist in a chemical form called triglycerides. Lower levels of triglycerides have been shown to support heart health.

11% Lower Ratio of Total Cholesterol to HDL Cholesterol†

HDL cholesterol helps remove “bad” cholesterol from the blood. A lower ratio of total cholesterol to HDL cholesterol has been shown to promote heart health.

60% Lower Levels of C-Reactive Protein†

C-reactive protein (CRP) is found in the blood and measures the body’s response to biological stress. Lower levels of C-reactive protein can contribute to increased heart health.

36% Lower Levels of Homocysteine†

Homocysteine is an amino acid produced naturally in the body. Lower levels of homocysteine in the blood can help support optimal heart health.

Research has shown self-rated health to be an excellent predictor of future health, and 8 out of 10 Shaklee users who participated in the Landmark Study described their health as being “Very Good” to “Excellent.”

†Percentages reflect Shaklee supplement users compared with nonsupplement users. Data for nonusers was obtained from NHANES 2001–2002 and NHANES III 1988–1994.
